

In preparing for the new millennium, the Corporation decided to change the name of the organization to reflect the amalgamation of Almonte, Pakenham and Ramsay townships into what is now known as Mississippi Mills, as well as, to recognize one of its founding members and past Chairperson Stanley Mills. As the year 2000 came around, the organization was now known as Mills Community Support Corporation.

- 2000: The Corporation moved into office quarters in the Old Town Hall of Almonte.
- 2001: A new Apartment Respite Program began for families of children with varied disabilities.
- 2000: A Rent Supplement Program (partnered with Lanark County Mental Health Services) was started that encouraged private housing to become rent-subsidized living accommodations for people with mental illness.
- 2003: The organization began its first HomeShare program in which a staff person is hired full-time to live with a person with developmental disabilities who is not particularly well suited to group living environments.
- 2003: The new "Gus the Bus" was purchased for the Home Support Program to help provide wheelchair accessible transportation for medical appointments and social outings.
- 2005: Became an active participant in the Transitional Aged Youth Initiative, which supports individuals moving out of the children's welfare system into the Developmental Services Sector, once reaching the age of 18.
- 2006: Through the Facility Initiative, Mills Community Support successfully transitioned individuals from the Rideau Regional institution into group living arrangements in a new group home in Smiths Falls.
- 2007: Further facility transitioning requirements led to the construction of a new intervention home in Almonte for deaf/blind individuals.
